

The applications for the brand-new LL.M. Programme in International and European Legal Studies at the Athens Law School are now open! Application deadline: 9 July!

The Law School of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens offers students wishing to gain an in-depth understanding and a hands-on knowledge of European Private Law or International and EU Law the chance to attend a brand-new LL.M. Programme entirely taught in English. The LL.M. in International and European Legal Studies brings together experts from all legal fields, thus constituting a unique master's Programme in terms of diversity, while offering its students the ability to find appropriate supervision in their field of expertise. Leading academics and practitioners from Greece and abroad with practical experience in specific fields are invited regularly to collaborate with the academic staff. At the same time, the students of the programme will benefit from the strong cooperation of the Athens Law School with the European Law School Network, comprising the Humboldt Universität in Berlin, King's College, La Sapienza University in Rome, the University of Amsterdam and the Universidade Cattolica Portuguesa in Lisbon. Once a year, students from all the participating countries come together in a Summer School held in the premises of one of these Law Schools, to practice modern legal skills. The LL.M. Programme in International and European Legal Studies has set itself the goal of offering its students better, more useful and creative studies, which will equip them with the necessary skills and qualifications to deal with the complex and ever-changing academic, professional, social, cultural and technological realities.

For further information please visit the programme website: <https://iels.law.uoa.gr/> and download the brochure with the most important facts and figures.